Dear Valued Business Partner,

With the merger of Chartis Corporate Benefits and American General Benefit Solutions into AIG Benefit Solutions, we are positioned to be a major player in the benefits marketplace where choice and flexibility will help producers, employers and third-party administrators meet the needs of their clients, employees and group members.

With the merging of American General's Benefit Solutions and Chartis Corporate Benefits divisions, we are creating a unified company with one of the largest portfolios in the benefits industry, forming a one-stop source for a wide variety of benefits needs.

With our experience and resources in employer-funded, voluntary and self-insured employer products for groups, associations and companies of all sizes, we will create an organization that is built for the group benefits marketplace of today and the future, with an emphasis on innovation, efficiency and a customer-centric focus.

We will be positioned to become a major player in the benefits market with an expanded reach, expertise in various areas, and more resources and tools to help our producers and their customers meet their needs.

If you haven't already seen it, attached for your review is a copy of an overview of our product mix.

Please feel free to contact me directly with any questions.

We look forward to serving you and your clients now and into the future.

Sincerely,

Blaise E. DiFedele
