This week's health care reform news:

Employers lobby against new health care regulation

More than 100 small business owners flew to Washington, D.C. last week to lobby Congress to do away with a new health care regulation that could cost them as much as $36,000 per employee per year for violations.

Other highlights include:

- Alaska's Governor Bill Walker expanded Medicare using a rare political maneuver.
- Connecticut's governor signed into law a new health care bill proposed by a legislative workgroup.
- Utah's governor and legislative leaders announced an agreement on a framework for expanding Medicaid.
