This week's health care reform news:

US health care spending greater than other high-income nations

A new Commonwealth Fund analysis found that the United States continues to spend far more on health care than other high-income nations, driven by greater use of medical technology and higher prices.

Other highlights include:

- A Georgia Senate study committee held its first hearing on “surprise billing”.
- Legislation that would cap copayments for specialty pharmacy drugs will be heard at a District of Columbia public hearing.
- Utah’s Health Reform Task force held its first public hearing on a newly proposed Medicaid expansion plan.
